DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's election without traverse of the auction method in the reply filed on September 16, 2007 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-4 and 21-36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Winebid.com (Business Wire).

The reference teaches a method of; depositing the goods into a third-party storage facility with an inventory control system, authenticating the wine;

providing a host computer accessible to remote users via a global computer network coupled to the inventory control system, wherein the inventory control system has an interface that allows a selling party to sell goods and a purchasing party, to buy goods through an auction method;

soliciting offers to purchase the deposited good via the inventory control system (transferring the ownership in the deposited goods from the selling party to the purchasing party), through the inventory control system in response to an ownership transfer command from the host computer; and (see press release)

The reference fails to expressly teach of storing the deposited goods in the third party storage facility until a shipment command is received from the purchasing part to transfer the deposited goods to a location not associated with the third party storage facility.

It would have been obvious for one skilled in the art to have added a shipment command as motivated by the need to facilitate speculators who have no need to take physical possession of the wine.

It would have been obvious for one skilled in the art at the time to ship the wine as motivated by the need for wine consumers to drink the wine.

It would have been obvious for one skilled in the art at the time to have auctioned the wine by all auction methods including English, Dutch, Sealed Bid, Vickery , and to have added a electronic method of payment. In addition, it would have been obvious to include the steps of estimating the value of the wine, insuring the wine, categorizing the wine, accepting advertising on the wine web site, as motivated by the need to tailor the auctions to specific demands and as motivated by the logic of looking at other auctions for best of breed methods.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
